DUMBBARTON PLAYED YOUNG MIDSHIPMEN

Won by 4 to 2 in Feature-less Game.

ERRORS STOPPED SHUT-OUT

Middies in Poor Shape to Meet West Point in Great Match Next Saturday.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14.—The Dumbarton club baseball team, of Washington, played its initiative game with the Naval Cadets here today, winning with little effort to the tune of 4 to 2. The Cadets got their two runs on errors.

The Cadets won their first score in the second inning.

The Cadets were blanked till the fourth inning, when they tallied two runs. For the rest of their innings they were goose-egged.

In the seventh and ninth innings the boys from Georgetown tallied a run.

The game was void of any features. Both teams played a good, steady game.

Cohen Killed It.

Thomas and Campbell did the best stick work for Dumbarton. Cohen was conspicuous on the field, robbing Carter of a four-base hit, and also lined out a long left center drive.

With the West Point game only a week hence, the midshipmen's baseball team still continues to play a disappointing article of ball.

The hitting on both sides was comparatively light. Honors were about even in the pitching line between Carter, of the visitors, and Hughes, of the locals. The middies had a fairly good chance of winning out in the ninth. Two hands were out and the bases full when Spofford came to bat and struck out.

The Score.

BOSTON DOWNS DETROIT IN AN UPHILL GAME

BOSTON, May 14.—The game between the champion Boston and the Detroit was close until the winning run was made in the eleventh by the locals. Winter was in the box for Boston and had things pretty much his own way until Detroit's half of the ninth, when they jumped on him and not only tied the score but went two ahead. Tannehill was substituted at the opening of the tenth and his pitching assisted materially in landing the game. Ferry pitched good ball for Detroit except when men were on bases. Score:

Keene's Delhi Captures Famous Withers Stake

Finishes a Head in Front of Bryn Mawr in Fast Time of 1:40—Africander
Wins His First Start.

MORRIS PARK RACE TRACK, New York, May 14.—The thirty-first renewal of the historic Withers Stake was contested here this afternoon and the spotted jacket of James R. Keene was "first past post," his good colt Delhi finishing a head in front of Bryn Mawr in the fast time of 1:40 flat for the Withers mile. The Fashion Stakes, for two-year-old fillies, was spoiled by a straggling start, and the even money favorite, Bellatrix, finished second to Incantation, from the stable of Andrew Miller, the stewards of the Jockey Club. Starter Fitzgerald let Incantation off on her toes and she lasted long enough to win by a nose from the favorite, Africander, the suburban winner of 1903, made his first appearance of the season in the last race, and won after a hard drive from Billy Oliver's Lord Bades.

The Summaries.

First race—For maiden three-year-olds; six and one-half furlongs. Cardless, 9 to 10, won; Out of Reach, 5 to 1, second; Male Hanlon, 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:23 1/4.

MIDDIES ON TOP IN DUAL MEET

Got Seven of Twelve Events
From Lafayette.

ACADEMY RECORD SMASHED

Midshipman Chambers Put Shot 34
Feet 4 1/5 Inches—First Meet
of the Kind.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14.—The midshipmen of the Naval Academy entered into the arena of dual field and track sports here today with representatives from Lafayette College. This was the first time the Middies have undertaken an event of this nature, and well did they acquit themselves.

The meet consisted of twelve events. Annapolis won first place in seven of these, scoring a total of 56 points to Lafayette's 40.

One of the Academy records was broken, namely, the shot-put, Chambers of Annapolis, tossing the weight 34 feet 4 1/5 inches. The former record was 33 feet 9 inches.

Fourth round—Mac put his right to Jack's stomach. McCoy is now the aggressor, and rains a storm of blows on Jack's body and face. The smile disappears from the Kid's face and he starts to cut Jack to pieces. Jack, however, is there with the goods, and soon has the "Kid" defending himself on the ropes. The "Kid" is not to be denied, and with a smile plays for an opening whenever he finds one. Both were sparring in the center at the bell.

Hisses Begin.

Fifth round—"Kid" misses straight left. O'Brien the same. Jack puts a light left to face. Both lead for an opening, but miss and clinch on the ropes. Jack put left on face, and misses right swing. "Kid's" left uppercut lands on face. More clinches. A few hisses from the crowd stirred Jack up. O'Brien stepped in and broke one of "Kid's" rushes. "Kid" put a hard right to the body and a left to the jaw, and missed another try. Infighting seems to be the "Kid's" style. They were sparring at the bell.

Crowd Displeased.

Sixth round—Both sparred for a second. Jack misses left swing and clinches. Jack swings wild and then puts right to stomach. It seems as if "Kid" is content to stay the limit. O'Brien looks determined and tries hard to land a decisive blow. He sends in right and lefts, but McCoy would smother up and sidestep. A right hook of "Kid's" brought blood from Jack's left eye. The hisses from the crowd did not cease McCoy. McCoy puts left to jaw. McCoy backed from a left swing at bell.

From cleverness and science the bout was a draw. There were hisses and cheers for both men.

McCoy Kicked on Crowthurst.

O'Brien wanted Bert Crowthurst, but McCoy declared that he would not enter the ring unless some man not a Philadelphia was selected. Many other names were suggested, and in the meantime the crowd fretted and listened to speeches by a number of alleged pugilists.

Jimmy Britt, who by the grace of Eddie Grancy, enjoys the distinction of a decision over Yeung Corbett, was introduced, and said he is willing to fight Corbett again. H. Walter Schlichter jumped into the ring and flashed a bunch of bills, which he alleged contained $1,000, saying that he would post it as a forfeit to clinch a match between Britt and Joe Gans for the lightweight championship of the world. Britt rejoined that he was a feather, not a lightweight, and would meet Gans at 125 pounds for any sum up to $5,000.

McCoy's seconds were his brother, Homer Selby, Charley Mitchell, and Harry Foley.

First round—Both fiddling for an opening. Jack breaking ground. Jack light left to face. Clinch. O'Brien left to jaw and misses counter. Jack left to stomach and right to jaw. "Kid" breaks ground. More fiddling. Both land lightly and clinch. A left goes on "Kid's" neck. Clinch. Jack left to nose. The "Kid" feints with left, but Jack was foxy. O'Brien was foxy again, and refused to be led into a trap. A vicious right hook sends Mac reeling. Jack is doing good work, and had Mac breaking ground at the bell.

Second round—Jack is aggressor at once. A storm of rights and lefts sent Jack backward. Jack stepped in with right hook. A couple of lefts on jaw caused Jack to slip to canvas. He is up quickly. Jack keeps carrying the fight to the "Kid". Both miss right and left swings. Clinch. O'Brien lands light right on jaw at bell.

O'Brien Forces Matters.

Third round—"Kid" is sparring for opening. Jack started to work by landing his old-time left to "Kid's" nose. "Kid" puts right to stomach. The "Kid" misses right hook. Jack puts right on stomach and right to jaw. Both clinch. Jack works "Kid" into corner, but the "Kid" cleverly avoids him. Jack's right on jaw. Both land on body and clinch on ropes. O'Brien puts left to jaw without a return. "Kid" is backstepping, but Jack is after him and landed the first hard blow of the fight, a right and left swing, but they do not take the smile from "Kid's" face. Both spar at the bell. O'Brien's round.

Fourth round—Mac put his right to Jack's stomach. McCoy is now the aggressor, and rains a storm of blows
